ABOUT THE WRITER:

Tom Worsley is a NSW-based British comedy and children's writer with experience of writing narrative scripts, story ideas, topical gags, and television and radio sketches. He has written audio sitcom, and jokes and sketches for shows across UK BBC Radio 4, BBC Scotland TV and Channel 4 as well as for a BBC Children's comedy adventure gameshow.

Tom has been a finalist and longlisted in many UK writing competitions, and in 2017 he made the final of the Nickelodeon Writing Program (International). In 2018 he was chosen to be part of the UK BBC Writersroom's inaugural 'Scottish Voices' group and later the Children's BBC 'New Voices' initiative in 2020. The BBC Writersroom's 'Scottish Voices' 2018-2019 group was aimed at developing the next generation of new writers and you can read about it here in the BBC Writersroom Scottish Voices blog

In 2019, Tom's first sitcom pilot, 'Sue and John', was broadcast on BBC Radio Scotland. It was subsequently nominated for a Celtic Media Award. You can read about the writing process on the BBC Writersroom's 2019 radio pilots blog

In 2024, Tom wrote an original audio pilot, 'Sad Sunk Rock', for leading UK audio production company and distributor Big Finish as part of their new 'Comedy Playhouse' strand which was released in November 2025. You can read more about Tom's pilot at Big Finish's official website

He is also an improvisational comedian and in 2025 he became part of the house teams of the Glasgow Improv Theatre, the most biggest improv group in Scotland.
